We will be releasing a Windows 10 version later this year. A: I think what you are looking for is called "Remote Control Software" (RCS). E.g. you can use gphoto2 to control your camera remotely, not just in window mode, but as a whole application. The gphoto2 website lists the supported cameras as: Canon Powershot SD400/SD800 series (old and new ones). And the gphoto2 can now also control Sony DSLR cameras with the help of a Firmware update from gphoto2's developers. On the site of gphoto2 a video with some samples is shown (imagine it is comparable to your BackYardEOS), which you can download and try out, too. I've been thinking a lot about the paradox of knowledge recently. So I made a flow chart, here's the skinny, I'll come back in a couple weeks to add more. My rational mind thinks: I'm making a flow chart of this because I'm being aware and insightful. My irrational mind thinks: I'm making a flow chart of this because I'm being defensive and resistant to being wrong. If I'm being aware and insightful, why am I making a flow chart of this? If I'm being defensive and resistant to being wrong, why am I making a flow chart of this? What's the real motivation? It's simple, when I'm defensive and resistant to being wrong, I need to understand why I'm being defensive and resistant to being wrong. If I need to understand why I'm being defensive and resistant to being wrong, I need to know what the real motivation is. Why do I need to understand what the real motivation is? When I'm aware and insightful, why 2d92ce491b
