May 31, 2019 - This article discusses the use of the passive voice in technical English. Convert active sentence to . In English, as in Russian, there are a number of constructions when the verb is in the passive voice, but the predicate of the active sentence is in the singular form. As a rule, these are constructions when the subject or direct object of the active sentence is in the singular form. For example: - I am doing my work for a week. I work during the week. - The work is done. Job is done. In an active sentence it would be: I am doing my work.
