Using the technology, FIFA 22 puts the ball in the most appropriate locations and makes decisions on how to move players around the pitch. For example, goalkeepers will dive in a different way to how they did in FIFA 21 as it will react to where the goalkeeper is going to dive in the new game. FIFA's Motion Capture Brings Realism to Life in New Ways The technology allows the player to get a better understanding of how the human body moves. Players can now sprint forward, backward, and sideways, and use the 360-degree movements of the “virtual body” during quick decision-making. The technology also enables players to see their footsteps when running and the technique and speed in which they take a sprint. The latest FIFA will feature two ways to play; a traditional quick match single-player mode as well as local and online multiplayer. Players can also challenge friendlies. But it is how the technology translates into the transfer market that is interesting. Depending on the competition in which the player is playing, the ball will either pass straight through a player’s legs or move in a more natural way. The motion capture technology not only emulates how the player's body moves but also mimics the type of kick in that action. Players can also play in any of the 3 methods of play including passing, shooting, or dribbling. This is a huge leap forward for the franchise that has always had one of the biggest leaps forward in movement and mechanics. Below is a video explaining the technology in FIFA 22 from EA Sports. FIFA 22 comes out on September 27. Pre-orders can be found on Steam, PlayStation Network and Xbox Live. Update: Exclusive early hands-on images (read it!)55 F.3d 638 Smithv.U.S.* NO. 93-9031

What's new:

- New gameplay control. A new series of interactive ball physics now allows players to dive, jump or power overhead passes with the ball, making the game more realistic.
- New Player Attributes. New Player Attributes make your players more unpredictable - with the ability to work harder than the competition for international recognition, and a boost in speed and stamina, which makes them harder to track.
- Enhanced Player Models. Physically-based rendering and LOD technology makes all player models more accurately recreate the fast-moving, fit and tough players on the world's top teams in FIFA 22.
- Increased Player Pass Metrics. Smarter team-work logic, and new animation-based pass metrics - such as Time on Target and rate of fire - make gameplay more dynamic.
- Enhanced Goalkeeper Aiming Mechanics. Good saves win matches, so the new Keeper Boost Stats aim to make goalkeeping more physically demanding, encouraging your goalkeeper to make saves that challenge the consistency and

- brilliance of your goalkeepers pass.
 - Player Routes. Your squad of players is now connected, so the movements of every team member influence each other throughout the pitch.

FIFA (from FIFA, the game's name in some countries) is the most popular sports video game franchise in the world. Millions of people play FIFA every day, and millions more follow the game closely. It is the biggest soccer simulation franchise in the world. As FIFA celebrates 20 years of continued dominance, the game is bigger than ever. New devices and platforms, including smartphones and tablets, make FIFA a more immersive, connected experience. Content-wise, it's evolved from a simple simulation of the sport, and now offers unparalleled presentation and match engine innovation. The world of FIFA is bigger than ever, featuring over 2,300 clubs, countries and stadiums from around the globe. From the twinkling lights of London to the sun-soaked terraces of Spain, we see more of the game than ever before. FIFA Online 2 has expanded to over 2 million players, and the Madden Ultimate Team franchise has transitioned to digital-first. Now on FIFA.com, we're also taking FUT on the road - be it to the FIFA World Cup™, or on field to your favourite clubs around the world. The most popular game in the world continues to become even more immersive, more real and more addictive. What's new in FIFA 22? This year's FIFA is all about making the most popular game even better. This is your FIFA, the best online game in the world, the complete package, all-in-one. Team of the Year One of the most important announcements of the year. For the first time, this year's Team of the Year is comprised of only professional players, and each team is made up of a mix of national and club players to represent each of the world's 207 nations. With 22 elite teams spanning four skill-levels, FIFA 22 is the first FIFA to ever have a Team of the Year.

If you're starting a career, pick a team based on your preferred skill level. If you're starting a game from a larger team, choose the higher level. And if you're a pro, pick the team you want to play on. The best possible Team of the Year. Match Engine Every year, improvements in the FIFA match engine make it more and more like real football. This year, it's the realization of the most significant change in match engine technology: The introduction of attacking pressing. This year's engine also features a more intelligent player
