Recommended Games After sanctions, Iran orders to halt Russian envoy TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian foreign ministry said Thursday it ordered its ambassador to Moscow to return to Tehran as soon as possible, as the two countries struggle over the details of the next steps in implementing U.N. sanctions over its nuclear program. The Iranian ambassador to Russia, Gholam Ali Khoshroo, arrived in Tehran on Wednesday night to brief his government about the latest U.N. proposal that would allow six-month relief from existing sanctions on Iran in exchange for some modest restrictions on the Iranian program. The Iranian plan also calls for the United States and European Union to reinstate the sanctions suspended in November as part of the interim agreement with six world powers and Iran, known as the Joint Plan of Action. The sanctions required Iranian compliance with the plan and as a result, the country has also stopped exporting crude oil. The timing and details of the U.N. sanctions plan has been of great interest to Tehran and Russia, whose President Vladimir Putin has lobbied hard to keep the existing agreement alive.
