Downey council puts busts back on GIL PINCKNEY
Published 10:00 pm, Thursday, July 23, 2008
DOWNEY -- The council has approved restoring downtown police car busters to their proper place, two months after state and federal oversight officials in Malibu ordered local departments to remove the busts that were used by the LAPD and other agencies. But as always, it was a close vote. Councilman Jeff Simpson and a majority of the council voted in April to remove the cuffs in favor of traditional nightsticks and mace. Many downtown businesses that employ longtime police officers support the change. But this month, the council reassessed the move, called for a study on the potential costs to the city and moved to reinstate the handcuffs. "There's certainly enough on the record that hasn't been answered," Simpson said. Sara Wallace, the city's chief administrative officer, has been charged with assessing the cost of the change. "We need to know what we're doing, what we're paying for and what the benefits are going to be," Simpson said. "We don't want to say it's costing $100,000 to do this, but we need to understand what the benefits are." Wallace will report back to the council by Sept. 10, Simpson said. Simpson said he was glad to hear the measure was approved. "I'm glad that
