silence and the honour are synonymous with the Jaish E Islam Jihad – a jihadist organization group which is most likely plotting, for now, to spread mayhem in the country like an Oil tanker's fire. The group has taken advantage of the current political turmoil in the country to implement its asymmetric warfare plan for undermining the integrity of India.

Though there are reasons to believe that there could be an attack or some other activity from the group, the ongoing standoff is the backbone of this theory. The standoff led the Prime Minister to lock down the IPL matches in India. The lockdown and subsequent shutdown saw the loss of millions of rupees. Counting the revenue of the IPL, the losses due to the lockdowns range between Rs 1,000 to Rs 2,200 crores. The losses include the revenue that could have been gained by the matches, travel and food costs for the players and grounds staff, and the host nation's expenditure on security and emergency services. India's policy makers have not only taken control of the situation but also worked towards re-opening the economy in a scientific manner. They have ensured that only the essential services were functioning with everyone else to be kept at home.

One would argue that if the government shuts down an industry, the amount of money lost is far less than the revenue earned, but this is not the case in India. In the U.S, even after all the cancellations, the event is being held. The event even generated half a billion dollars in tourism and investment. In India, we've seen protests by the farmer, the students and media. All three have even pledged support for each other. Though all three are different, they all carry similar aims. By default, all the three have carried the same message for a long time.
