Changes to dribbling “We’ve made several changes to dribbling in FIFA 22. You’ll notice a much more consistent and aggressive style of dribbling,” says David Rutter, Senior Producer on FIFA. “Players are able to more easily dribble between opponents and both high and low tackle scenarios will be more fluid.” Simultaneously, Rutter says, the way players move through a defensive line has changed significantly. “When attacking from the flanks, players are now able to attack downhill and around the central defenders, rather than side-to-side in a straight line.” Players also now move more quickly and are able to accelerate while moving through the defensive line, making for more fluid defending. “Defending in FIFA is about anticipating the next move and the player immediately after you. Defending becomes a more reactive job than anything else.” Afton Binder (FIFA 17) and Atiba Harris (FIFA 18) return to reprise their roles as Two-Step Dribbling Consultants. Special Move Changes FIFA 22 introduces new ways for players to control Special Moves. “There are two new attacks available in FIFA 22: the first is Arsenal and the second is Volley,” Rutter says. “Both attacks can be performed with a lobbed pass or an open-field dribble. The lobbed pass will give you a defined distance to move with a controlled, acrobatic release. In contrast, the open field dribble allows you to move at an absolute sprint and has a higher chance to spin away from defenders.” Players will now be able to use a backheel on a pass that they control to reach the goal. Players can also use Forward Tackles to interrupt a run and finish, restart the clock and give themselves an extra second. “With Forward Tackles in FIFA 22, defending has never been more enjoyable,” says Rutter. Two new Special Moves in FIFA 22 are the Volley and the Volley assist. FIFA 22 introduces new animations and a new, more powerful floating crossbar. Direct Hit Direct Hits return in FIFA 22. “Direct Hits now take the timing and physics of an accurate long throw into account when calculating contact and distance,” says Rutter. Assist
